

like a noble animal.
that kind of a vacation

Ma.in Streel

By JAMES A. GOUROURAS

PHIL CROWLEY of Mill st., raced out to Ho. Country Club yesterday afternoon. His father-in-law was in the finals for a Calcutta Gol. contest. It not only meant a monetary prize, but a big moment in' his father-in-law's life. Golf is the older man's passion, after a quiet game of cards with his regular cronies.

Crowley followed the contest from lone golf green to another. He not only stayed for the victory, but brought along two friends, to make tip a cheering section for his father-in-law.

Maybe it's best the father-in-law remain nameless here, for it left Crowley with a stunned expression when, time came for introductions: the father-in-law introduced Crowley's friends, then turned to his son-in-law, and — With snapping fingers and no sense of recall whatsoever — finally accepted the whispered help of a friend: It's Phil Crowley, your son-in-law!

BIG-TIME GO,LF

Winners

are like that, Pinl. They get tongue-tied and have memory lapses ••

NORM BAILEY, Lawrence Welk's lead trumpet man, was munching lunch last Friday noon at the Holiday Inn's dining room with Johnny Green, the Safety Council man. The former was en route to Boston for an appearance. He and Green were part and parcel of 'The Music Weavers, a group dedicated to succeeding in the musical field some decades ago.

EL MOROCCO'S new home, will it have anything to do with the merchandising man across Lake Bridge? Anthony (Spag) Borgatti seen more and more frequently at the Wall Street spot. Matter of fact, one of the few times we didn't see Borgatti around was when Wayne Newton and Paul Aboody had their tiff and tussle in the only fating place of its kind in the east to feature' (and use, extensively on weekends) a velvet rope to hold back those seeking tables fur dinner.

HOW I EJEFFERSON wearing a new uniform these days - he's it security policeman for the Mammoth store chain. Discussing the recent pictures in this column showing one time owners of Holden County Club, (the Fairchilds), he recalls a day when he posed with "Sis" Fairchild and Louis Armstrong in the former Fairbrook Country Club

Wonder how many who pass the uniformed policeman at the Mammoth stores realize they're looking at one of the greatest tenor sax players in the East?

DON FANCY, well-known pianist from Northboro, is collecting some of the best jazzmen in New England into what will be known as the "Diapasonic Dixie Six." Hope that Jefferson has been alerted to this, and makes a try for what promises to be a lively group of music makers.

There are big plans afoot for the Massachusetts Traditional Jazz, Club. If you don't wanUo miss them, get a card off quick to "Jazz,Box, 325, Auburn, Mass. 01501" for a flyer and a reservation coupon for the upcoming event.

PAUL ABOODY

It's to be at Barlin Aeres from 2:30 to 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 22, with children under 15 admitted free if with their parents. Fancy will have some strong Dixie going from the bandstand. Inclement weather doesn't worry the club planners. There's a spacious building on the premises to permit the entire program to move indoors if the skies open up.

MONDAYS ••• If you look forward to Mondays with more enthusiasm than you did to Fridays, you're in big danger of becoming successful.

HAMPTON BEACH doesn't dare pick a beauty queen annually without bachelor Bob Bergin on hand as a judge.

The former bomber pilot and, now a lieutenant colonel in the Air Force Reserve, still has a sharp eye. When not at his camp in the mountains on Granite Lake in' New Hampshire, he's busy as travel representative for the Telegram and Gazette.

Anyway, Bergin's the name, and he's the one several have asked about, the very same Bergin they've seen on the judges' stand in the Hampton Beach Casino ballroom for more than six years.

"TONI" TOSCANO, owner of Jim's Inn in South Grafton, postcards from the Bahamas that she and her chief bartender, Babs Johnston, didn't have one word of complaint about this year's vacation,

Nassau. Even the horse, driving the surrey that took them to the foot of the Queen's Staircase (did you girls make the 65-step climb??), looked

RECITAL and DANCE

REGGIE WALLEY

present8 •••

his annual Recital in Revue Form with dancing to follow •

see the "Dance Skit of Death" with fabulous costumes and Interpretations. Hear and dance to the music of Reggie's famous "Rhythm Masters," band with the beat thacmoney: can't buy.

FRIDAY, JUNE 15-8 pm

WORCESTER MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM

Death Dance: 7:30 - 10 P. M. Tickets available at Studio 211 Main St.-PL 2-0930

